Traveling to Cuba

Updated 29 June 2022

Visitors to Cuba are not required to provide proof of vaccination or a negative PCR test to enter the country. Visitors are required to fill in an online declaration form. Public health measures including spot-check PCR testing at the airport and mask wearing remain in place.

Passport must have six months validity at the time of entry. BLANK PASSPORT PAGES: Two pages are required for entry/exit stamps.

Before travelling to Cuba, you must have comprehensive travel insurance that will cover all overseas medical costs, including medical evacuation for the full duration of your stay. You will have to present a copy of your insurance on arrival. American health insurance is not covered.

Purchase a Cuban Tourist Card

Every American tourist needs a Cuban Tourist Card. Luckily, it's very easy to get one. It's just a card that you purchase and fill out.

You can buy your Tourist Card from an official online vendor, in advance of your trip. This is the easiest and safest option if you don't want to wait until the very last moment to secure your necessary travel documents. You should do this at least three months prior to your travel. If you're traveling from the US to Cuba, you can use Cuba Visa Services to get the best rate on your pink Cuban Tourist Card. Cuba Visa Services ships within the US via FedEx.

You can also buy it from an airline (at the airport or online).

Each airline carrier offers different services to assist travelers in obtaining the necessary tourist visa card for travel to Cuba. In most cases, you will be able to purchase the tourist card at the airport, but this may not be the case with all airlines and rules do change.

It is essential that you check with your airline to confirm their policy. You don't want to arrive at the airport without a Tourist Card if the airline doesn't provide it because they will turn you away.

- Here are the guidelines for the airlines that fly to Cuba from the United States. These guidelines are accurate as of June 2022.
 - Southwest: $85 ($50 visa + $35 processing fee), available at Cuba Travel Services counters in Tampa and Fort Lauderdale. Or purchase in advance online.
 - JetBlue: $50, purchase at the final airport before departing the US.
 - Delta: $50, purchase at the gate before boarding.
 - United: $75 ($50 visa + $25 processing fee), purchase at the gate in Houston or New York/Newark.
 - American: $85 ($50 visa + $35 processing fee), available at the Miami airport or online.

Keep your Cuban Visa with your passport at all times

If you lose your Tourist Card, you must replace it before you will be allowed to depart. To avoid a huge hassle, keep your Tourist Card tucked into your U.S. passport. Also, be sure to carry your passport with you at all times, a Cuba travel safety best practice.
