SUMMER 2013

The Wild, Wild West

Rain quickly gave way to blue skies as the Arcadians gathered at This is The Place Heritage Village for our May event.

This living history park gives visitors a taste of how the earliest pioneers led their daily lives.

Did You Know???

Saint Theodora of Vasta hailed from Arcadia? During the 10th century, bandits often raided this part of Greece. Determined to defend her village, she disguised herself as a man and went into battle. Tragically killed, her last words were, "Let my body become a church, my hair a forest of trees, and my blood a spring to water them."

A church was built on the sight of her grave. Soon after, a river miraculously rerouted itself to flow under the church. Then trees began to grow from the roof, but the roots are not visible anywhere in or on the church.

She is commemorated on Sept. 11.
