

Kacey Baker, MHRM, HRPM

Consultant

A values driven leader adept at improving organizational culture through implementing cutting edge practices and emerging trends focused on cultivating an equitable work culture, building community, and developing high performing employees and teams. Kacey has earned a reputation as a master facilitator with a wealth of knowledge and experience in the Human Resource industry.

She holds a Master of Arts in Human Resource Management from Catholic University of America. She has held various roles in human resources, most recently as Senior Director of People and Culture, where she leads her organization's race, equity, diversity, and inclusion work. Kacey is a HR leader known for rolling up her sleeves and leading the organization's human resource function with an emphasis on creating an equitable, diverse, and inclusive culture; while working to ensure the employee life cycle offers all employees a space to be seen, heard, and valued.

As a leader in HR, Kacey is committed to cultivating equitable work cultures, building community, and creating space for all to thrive. Prior to starting her career in HR, she was a middle school English teacher