Discernment Retreat: 'Discovering the Beauty and Goodness in all Vocations' - Weekend, February 23 - 25, 2018

Are you between 17 and 30 years of age and considering what vocation God may be calling you to? The Discernment Retreat will be a relaxed and intimate weekend where participants will be invited to take a step back from their busy life to reconnect with God, and to be guided in their vocational discernment. Discover the beauty of all vocations: to the married life, to the priesthood, or to the religious life. The retreat will be held at the Catholic School of Evangelization in St. Malo, MB on the weekend of February 23 to 25, 2018. There will be prayer times, one-on-one spiritual accompaniment, sharing, reflection, games, great food, and so much more! Facilitators will be travelling from across North America to share their experience, to pray with and accompany participants. Investment: $50/participant, which includes food, lodging, and all retreat materials. This retreat is sponsored by the Vocations Offices of the Archdioceses of Winnipeg and of Saint-Boniface. To register or for more information: Kevin Prada, kevin@catholicway.net, 204-347-5396. View poster. View registration form.

Marriage Tip

"Love is a decision" is a maxim from the Marriage Encounter (ME) movement. As wonderful as marriage can be, it's not always lived on an emotional high. Some days, we must just decide to love. The feelings will eventually follow.

Stewardship Reflection - 5th Sunday in Ordinary Time - February 4, 2018

'Rising very early before dawn, he left and went off to a deserted place, where he prayed...

He told them, 'Let us go on to the nearby villages that I may preach there also. For this purpose, have I come.' Mark 1:35, 38

In today's Gospel reading we see a perfect example of stewardship. Jesus gives His time to do all that God wishes - healing the sick and preaching. But before He begins, Jesus makes time to be alone with God in prayer. It is through prayer, spending time with God, that we find the strength to do what He wishes us to do. Be sure to find time every day to be with God.

The Good News that Cures Us

The Gospel this Sunday presents passages that describe Jesus curing people. Today, when needed, we see a doctor and get medical attention. This passage could leave us uncomfortable or even surprised when we read what followed. Jesus brought St. Peter's mother-in-law back to health. Instead of taking time to recover, we read that the lady immediately attended to her visitors. We might wonder if Jesus was relegating women to domestic service, as appears to be the case. We may have forgotten how society in Jesus' era defined roles for men and women. To be able to perform one's assigned role was a source of great honour. Jesus not only cured the mother-in-law's ailment, he immediately enabled her to resume her place in society. With this cure, the fever that threatened her life disappeared and she could continue as before.

Our thoughts may be torn between admiration for Jesus' miracles and questions about these medical experiences. This is unfortunate as we have lost the perspective of analysing Jesus' actions within the context of his era. Since Christ was accepted as a man of God, it was normal that he would be blessed with healing powers. Two millennia later, we place our health in the hands of competent medical personnel who base their expertise on scientific research. This didn't happen in Jesus' era. We do not associate healers with medical intervention. We read in the Gospel that Jesus often cured people. There were no infirmaries when Jesus traveled throughout the countryside. He brought the simple message of the Good News that cured lives and forced demons to leave tormented people. Many ailments were attributed to possession by these perverse demons. Curing physical defects and bringing people back to life also were recorded as Christ's interventions.

Jesus' healings are regarded as miraculous cures. Could we be questioning these passages because our faith is at a transitional phase? The Christian faith has many followers among the people of the Southern continents who value the talents of healers. The Christian faith will remain strong as it cares for people, whatever their spiritual and physical needs. This is a better perspective. Our Christian faith will be relevant for people in our own country once we acknowledge the difference it makes in our lives. Our faith will free us from heartaches. It will bring us consolation, a new perspective on life, and an intuitive capacity to respond to the needs of our sisters and brothers.
