UNESCO supports culture and heritage during COVID-19's shutdown

Thursday, 9 April 2020

Historic Centre of the Town of Olinda, Brazil

UNESCO is launching initiatives to support cultural industries and cultural heritage as billions of people around the world turn to culture for comfort and to overcome social isolation during the COVID-19 sanitary crisis, which is hitting the culture sector hard.

"The global nature of the COVID-19 crisis is a call for the international community to reinvest in international cooperation and intergovernmental dialogue" said Audrey Azoulay, Director-General of UNESCO. "UNESCO is committed to leading a global discussion on how best to support artists and cultural institutions during the COVID-19 pandemic and beyond, and ensure everyone can stay in touch with the heritage and culture that connects them to their humanity."

On Thursday, UNESCO launched a global social media campaign, #ShareOurHeritage

“The term ‘Great Resignation’ was coined by Dr Anthony Klotz to refer to the significant number of employees expected to leave their current roles during or towards the end of the pandemic. Klotz believes that pandemic-related “epiphanies” about “family time, remote work, commuting, passion projects, life and death” have changed the way employees think about work. In conjunction with “pent-up resignations” these “epiphanies” have led to the ‘Great Resignation’.”

Community Infrastructure and Housing Accelerator – Proposed Guideline

Proposal Overview:

Bill 109, the More Homes for Everyone Act, 2022 was introduced in the Legislature on March 30, 2022. If passed, section 5 of Schedule 5 to the Bill would amend the Planning Act to establish a new “community infrastructure and housing accelerator” tool. The Minister of Municipal Affairs and Housing would have the power to make orders to respond to municipal council resolutions requesting expedited zoning outside of the Greenbelt Area.

Municipalities Face Challenges in Implementing Province's Growth Plan Policies

- Numerous changes in policies have created instability in the land-use planning process. Significant changes in provincial land-use planning policies over the last 10 years, often occurring within a year of a previous change, have made it challenging for GGH municipalities to ensure their planning documents are up-to-date and conform with such policies.
- Municipalities receive insufficient guidance from Ministry staff about how to implement policies in provincial plans. In our survey of municipal planners, 70% of respondents said that, based on their experience over the last five years, they have not received sufficient guidance or direction from Ministry staff whenever they asked for help or clarification. This is consistent with the results of a 2018 Ministry survey of municipal land-use planners, in which respondents raised concerns about Ministry staff knowledge and the quality of Ministry staff responses to questions.

Improvements Needed in Ministry's Collaboration with Local and Provincial Partners

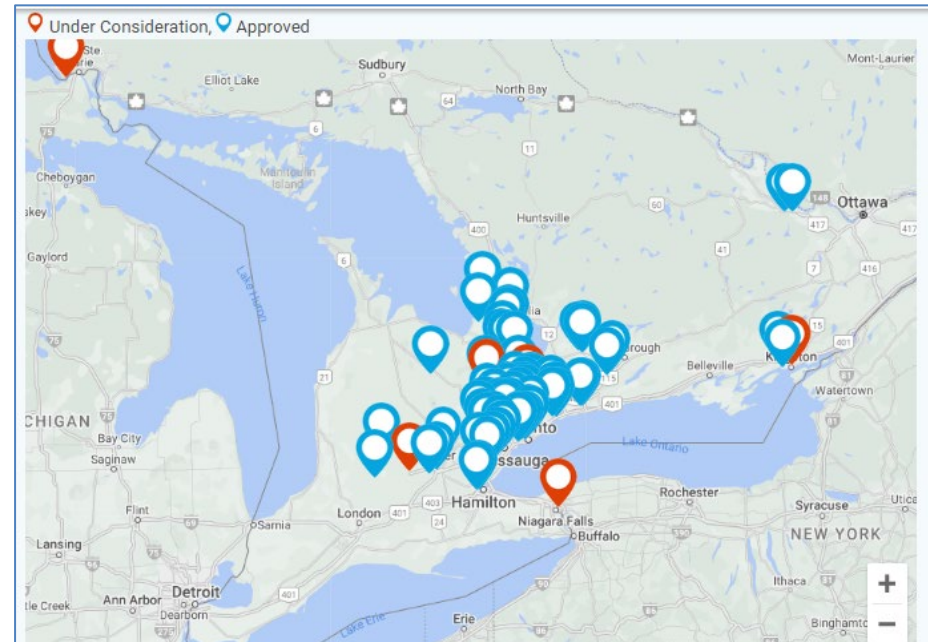

Ministerial Zoning Orders

Bill 257 – “The Planning Act is amended to provide that ministerial zoning orders made under section 47 are not required and are deemed to never have been required to be consistent with policy statements issued under subsection 3 (1).

However, any part of such an order that applies to land in the Greenbelt Area is and always has been required to be consistent with a policy statement issued under subsection 3 (1).”

Broad and Frequent Use of Minister's Zoning Orders Undermine the Land-Use Planning Process

- MZOs are being used to fast track development and circumvent normal planning processes. Planning processes that often take months or years to complete because they ensure that sufficient due diligence is conducted through technical studies and public consultation are being bypassed by MZOs.

Shared Path says MZOs are compromising truth and reconciliation efforts in Ontario

Shared Path's question for all party leaders: How are you going to ensure all land development, including MZOs, respect Aboriginal and treaty rights by adhering to the duty to consult and accommodate?

TORONTO, May 16, 2022 /CNW/ - Shared Path Consultation Initiative is concerned that the unbridled use of Minister's Zoning Orders (MZOs) is compromising truth and reconciliation efforts between Indigenous
