School Retirements (continued on page 2)

Banjo caused much amusement when he presented Vern with a sparkling new garden fork as a memento of his time at the school.

It seems a long time ago now when families and interested community members joined students and staff at the primary school on December 11th to farewell Vern Dutschke and Annette Elliss who have both retired this year after decades of service to the school.

Principal Kel Barnes welcomed everyone then invited the guests of honour to relate some anecdotes from their time at the school and answer questions from the children.

Vern spoke first, prefacing his own recollections with the information that his father had also been a groundsman at the school. He remembered that lambs had been reared there as well as hens. He received heartfelt applause for his part in building the swimming pool and Judy Goss added the information that Vern put fingerling trout in the pool one year, which everyone fed with sweetcorn. When the fish were big enough a fishathon was held. People then paid for the fish they caught, adding to the school funds.

From the Editor:

G'day all.

Happy New Year!

Here's hoping it will be better than 2020.

December was busy but it all seems a long time ago already so I hope the following pages don't seem too irrelevant. Anyway, it's good to be reminded of happy occasions past as well as things to come.

Thank you to all our regular contributors. It wouldn't happen without you!

Onward and upward into a brand new year.

Cheers, Anne.

Annette Elliss created a great deal of interest with her account of when she and her husband Allan bought the general store in 1986. Back then it was a small supermarket, similar to Foodland in Clare, and her contact with the school started by delivering school lunches. She and Allan also drove the school bus for a time.

Annette summed up her experiences with the words, "It has been the most amazing journey" - which apparently included moving the library seven times!

Ripley presented Annette with a book of messages from the children, that the school had created, for her.

We will reconvene on 31 January.
- Graham Bales

A combined Churches Christmas Eve service was held at the Brinkworth Hall and with the Covid rules in place, was a bit different to usual this year.

Raelene with Lara and Bailey read the litany for the lighting of the Advent Candles

Everyone brought their own chairs and signed in upon arrival. The usual nativity play with the children dressed according to their chosen parts was unable to be held.

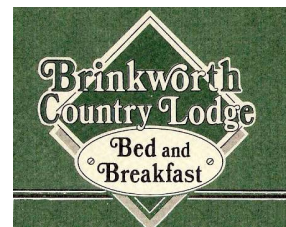

However, after the lighting of the Advent candles, the story of the first Christmas with the baby Jesus born in the stable in Bethlehem was read by various people. Christmas carols were sung, appropriately chosen to follow each part of the story. A brief history of origin was given prior to the singing of each carol.

A short message was given emphasising that although it has been a difficult year for many people, God is always there in the midst of our troubles and in our time of need. A small video clip entitled "The Christmas Story According to Kids" was shown.

With an attendance of 50 adults and 10 children, it was a very successful evening. Everyone was wished a very happy and blessed Christmas and a retiring offering was received and will be sent to Frontier Services who provide much needed support in the outback regions of Australia.

Ed: Last month I asked Aiden (who has far too many consonants in his surname!) for this report about the successful return to earth of the Hayabusa2 asteroid sample-return mission. I think it may interest readers so thanks, Aiden.

For the past month and a half I have been away with work.

As some of the town may or not know I work for Ventia as the Head Chef for Department of Defence at RAAF base Woomera. This past 2 months has been very full on with the arrival of JAXA, the Japanese space agency, combined with the Australian Space Agency with Dr Megan Clark.

This project has been an exciting one, working with people from all over the world from a science and media background. It was a exciting opportunity for myself to see and be a part of a history making event.
