What's the difference between a priest and a deacon?

The ordination of Jean-Baptiste Nguyen to the diaconate on May 31st and of Peter Le Van Ngu to the priesthood on June 1st serve as an occasion for Archbishop LeGatt, in his new video message for May, to explain the differences between priests and deacons. Why separate these celebrations? How are both the deacon and priest partaking in different dimensions of Holy Orders?

Planning for a Calm Life...

Our lives are constantly changing. Things happen and we react! Many issues can get in our way, slow us down and may even paralyze us. It can happen that innumerable complications follow one another and poison our days. These obstacles can eventually bring us down to the point where we no longer see any way out ... Yet according to Jesus, these situations can be overcome. Even before He died, Christ opened up a different avenue: a path of shared peace.

Such peace should not be confused with the peace promised by the world. Christ's peace is possible for those believers and faithful who are firmly connected to Him and his Father. Christ promised a Defender who will remind us constantly of God's goodness. This divine knowledge will be the antidote to whatever attacks our hearts and spreads fear. It is a new way of loving, a new way of remaining faithful to God's Word. It enables us to realize that we can remain faithful to God and achieve stability in our relationship with Him. All this is outlined in the beautiful poetry in today's second reading taken from Revelation. Light and beauty summarize the plan of our Great Architect who established His divine presence among us.

This climate of peace becomes achievable in the first reading, an excerpt from the Acts of the Apostles. The leaders understood that simplicity would frame the Christian life. In the light of these basic choices, I am making some Easter resolutions. I will not let myself be completely upset by events that affect me. Faithful to the word of Jesus, I will be able to recognize God's active presence in my days. This presence manifests itself to me despite all unexpected and disruptive events. I will celebrate the essentials which light up my life.

The gift of faith brings clarity and knowledge. The Catholic faith is based on what is essential: the Risen Jesus. As God's Gift in our lives, Christ is always present through His Spirit of holiness and communion. By recognizing this presence, I am able to conquer my fears and anxieties. They will be better managed thanks to my precious connection to the companionship of the Father, Son, and Holy Spirit.
