Taiwan's Economy

Did you know that your parents - and every working adult in Taiwan - pays taxes to the Taiwan government? For every dollar they make at work, they pay part of that dollar to the government. The government uses this money to pay for things for Taiwan.

The chart above shows how much the government spends on different things. For example, the Taiwan government spends 20% of its money on education. This means that for every $100NT the government spends, $20NT will be spent on education.

Read the chart to see what the government spends on these other categories:

- Defense - protecting Taiwan
- Running the Government - paying workers who work for the government
- Environmental Protection - protecting the natural beauty of Taiwan
- Hospitals - for example, Wangfang Hospital
- Economic Development - helping businesses make money so that they can provide jobs.

Do you think these are too much, or too little?
