“Exceptionally stimulating, Human Security in the Asia Pacific Region integrates security challenges and regional integration. Otto F. von Feigenblatt’s comparative monograph takes a magisterial overview of the region by comparing intra-regional and regional dynamics to produce a novel perspective of the Asia Pacific region. The brilliant synthesis in exploring the two Chinas’ problem in relation to Costa Rica and the use of Sarawak’s past to probe for a solution in Southern Thailand provide originality and vision of a rising young scholar. The book is a valuable contribution to the study of the region.”
